

Turks Invade Cyprus; Greeks Mobilize

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Bloody fighting raged today in Cyprus on the first day of a massive Turkish invasion by sea and air.

Turkish jets bombed and strafed much of the strategic Mediterranean island, including the capital, Nicosia, and the area between Nicosia and Kyrenia, a resort town on the north coast.

Airborne troops made at least four drops on the island, three in and around the capital, which is 10 miles inland from Kyrenia. Fires burned in Nicosia.

Greece declared a general mobilization and moved troops toward its border with Turkey, raising the possibility of a direct clash between the North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies.

Turkey's semiofficial news agency Anatolia reported today that Greek aircraft headed toward Cyprus had been intercepted by Turkish fighters near the Greek island of Rhodes.

The agency did not say whether any planes were shot down. There was no official confirmation of the Anatolia report.

Rhodes is about 250 miles west of Cyprus.

United Nations peace-keeping forces that have been on Cyprus for 10 years were reported trying to arrange cease-fires in some areas. A British forces radio report said fighting had been halted for 3½ hours in the Limassol area of southern Cyprus while convoys evacuated foreign nationals from Limassol to a nearby British base.

Turkish F4 Phantom fighter-bombers hit a mental hospital in Nicosia, killing at least 20 persons and wounding 60, an Associated Press photographer reported.

Cyprus Radio, controlled by the military-backed government that toppled the regime of Archbishop Makarios on Monday, reported that six Turkish planes had been shot down.

At the request of Greece, the U.N. Security Council was summoned into urgent session in New York to take up the invasion.

The Turkish attack early today was six days after the coup, which revived fears by Turkish Cypriots of annexation by Greece.

Turkish planes bombed Greek sections of Nicosia. Fires burned in at least 10 areas in and around Nicosia, the worst at the airport and near a Greek Cypriot camp.

Residents huddled in stairwells, basements and other parts of their homes seeking shelter from the fighting. Many held radios to their ears, trying to learn what was happening.

In a broadcast six hours after the start of the invasion, Ecevit declared: "The Turkish government did not resort to armed action before all the other means were tried, but to no avail."

He said that under treaties, "Turkey is co-guarantor of the independence and constitutional order of Cyprus. Turkey is fulfilling her legal responsibility by taking this action ..."

Nikos Sampson, the Greek Cypriot installed as president in the coup that ousted Makarios, broadcast to the Turkish community: "Your leadership is betraying you. In order to cover up its internal weaknesses it is leading you into a grave adventure, from which you would be the losers."

In Washington, military officials said seven Soviet divisions had been alerted in western and southern Russia in an apparent show of support for the Turkish side.

Pentagon spokesman Jerry Friedman said elements of the 6th Fleet "will approach closer to Cyprus in order to enhance our capability to evacuate U.S. citizens, should that contingency arise."

As the fighting raged, there were these developments:

—The North Atlantic Treaty Organization met in emergency session this morning in Brussels on the Cyprus conflict. Both Greece and Turkey are members.

—In Athens, the Greek Supreme Military Command went into emergency session to decide whether to go to war against Turkey.

—The U.S. 6th Fleet was ordered to move closer to the coast of Cyprus to evacuate U.S. citizens if necessary.

—British Royal Air Force units were alerted to evacuate 25,000 British nationals in Cyprus.

—In Washington, the Turkish Embassy issued a communique saying the purpose of the military action "is to get the intercommunal talks to start as rapidly as possible in order to restore the situation prior to the coup and the legitimate order."

The fighting was reported especially heavy between Turkish Cypriot and Greek Cypriot forces.

The rebel Greek-controlled Cyprus Radio claimed three Turkish planes had been shot down.

An Associated Press photographer who witnessed the bomb hits by Turkish planes on the mental hospital said one of the Phantom jets was downed by antiaircraft fire.

On the north coast, Turkish invasion troops stormed ashore outside tourist hotels lining the picturesque area just west of Kyrenia. An armada of warships and landing craft lay offshore while Turkish jets screamed in overhead to bomb bridges, roads and artillery positions. The Turks received only token resistance there.

Civilian cars, ambulances and trucks of Nicosia's Turkish Cypriot community rushed out to pick up paratroopers.

"This makes me tremendously happy," one Turkish paratrooper said.

"We have been suffering for a number of years. We've really been longing for this day. Our troops are not here to take over this land or to invade the Greek quarters. We are here just to look after the welfare of the Turkish community."

The military picture on Cyprus encompassed five separate elements:

—The invading Turkish forces, numbers not announced.

—The Turkish army contingent of 650 men regularly based in Cyprus.

—The Greek army contingent based on the island, believed to number 1,250 men.

—Greek Cypriot forces including the 10,000-strong national guard and the 1,200-member tactical police.

—Turkish Cypriot forces.

Turkish Skyhawk planes were seen bombing parts of the Greek sector of Nicosia which shook under the exploding bombs.

The rebel Greek-controlled Cyprus Radio claimed three Turkish planes had been shot down in the fighting. It said Greek forces were fighting "courageously."

There was sporadic firing along the so-called Green Line that divides the Greek and Turkish sections of the city.

The Turkish sea landing was at Kyrenia on the northern coast of the Mediterranean island, 45 miles south of Turkey. Fighting broke out in Kyrenia and Turkish vessels were shelling the shore. Greek Cypriot troops fired at Turkish helicopters overhead.

Greece and Turkey form the eastern edge of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. They nearly came to blows in 1963 and 1967 over Cyprus.

Nixon Charges Aired

WASHINGTON (AP) — Articles of impeachment holding President Nixon personally and directly responsible for the Watergate scandal are under consideration by the House Judiciary Committee.

The articles are part of a package presented by Special Counsel John Doar, who says the evidence in support of them warrants Nixon's impeachment.

Doar's analysis of that evidence continues today in another closed-door session dealing with charges of illegal intelligence gathering, misuse of government agencies, tax fraud and contempt of Congress.

More discussions and a presentation of arguments against impeachment by the minority staff are scheduled for early next week and on Wednesday the committee will begin its fateful deliberations, with the possibility of a vote on whether to recommend impeachment by next Saturday. The committee sessions are expected to be televised.

Any recommendation by the committee will go to the full House, which would decide whether to impeach Nixon. If the majority votes impeachment, the charges would then go to trial in the Senate, with a two-thirds vote needed for conviction and removal from office.

In his opening presentation Friday, Doar dropped the role of the impartial investigator presenting facts without conclusions and laid down what most Democrats described as a strong case for impeachment on the basis of Watergate alone.

His performance produced an angry response from Nixon's press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, who said Doar was "out of order in the extreme" in marshalling facts on the side of impeachment.

Several Republican committee members said they thought Doar did a good job in pulling together a case from the mass of material before the committee.

"I think it was a fair time for him to tell us how he thinks," said Rep. Caldwell Butler, R-Va., one of the uncommitted Republicans. "He has been very restrained up until now and I think he was fair today."

Rep. David Dennis, R-Ind., a staunch Nixon defender, said while Doar's presentation was pro-impeachment, "I thought he did it very well."

In a 306-page summary of the evidence, Doar said that Nixon decided shortly after the June 17, 1972 Watergate break-in to cover-up White House involvement.

"There is clear and convincing evidence that the President took over in late March (1973) the active management of the cover-up," Doar charged.

The proposed articles of impeachment join four other sets of articles proposed by committee members in the presentation.

Under a preamble charging Nixon with violating "the sacred obligation of his constitutional oath faithfully to execute the Office of President of the United States, and to the best of his ability preserve, protect and defend the Constitution," the draft lists four subject areas:

—Watergate, including the break-in, the cover-up, the payment of hush-money, the destruction of evidence, the interference with attempts to investigate it. "For all this Richard M. Nixon is personally and directly responsible," the draft article states.

—Abuse of power, a catchall article covering wiretapping, the Ellsberg break-in and the use of the Internal Revenue Service against political enemies, all described as "part of a pattern of massive and persistent abuse of power for political purposes...The pattern of conduct has been at the direction of Richard M. Nixon and on his behalf, acting both personally and directly and through his personal agents at the seat of government and their immediate subordinates."

—Refusal to comply with eight committee subpoenas requesting tapes of 147 presidential conversations, an action, the draft says, that places Nixon "in contempt of Congress and the cause of constitutional government."

—Tax evasion, an article based on Nixon's deduction of $576,000 from his income taxes for a gift of vice presidential papers, which, says the draft, "constituted a fraud upon the United States."

The drafts proposed by committee members cover much the same ground but add additional charges, including bribery, the impoundment of congressionally appropriated funds, the secret bombing of Cambodia, and the "dirty tricks" used against Democratic presidential candidates.

U.S. Policymakers Approach Cyprus Case With Caution

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

American policymakers are playing their cards in the tangled Cyprus situation with an eye to the Soviet Union as well as to the Greek, Turks and Cypriots themselves.

All through the past week, before today's Turkish invasion of Cyprus and reports that the Russians have placed seven divisions of troops on alert, the United States, plagued by a quarter-century of cold war phobias, had begun to appear in a most curious situation.

In the Wonderland of diplomacy, things — as Alice would have put it — got "curiouser and curiouser." The Cyprus takeover by Greek-officered insurgents produced a situation wherein the Americans seemed caught in a sticky web of contradictory aims.

Officially — and commercially — the United States is eager for steadily better relations with the Soviet Union.

Yet in the Cyprus blowup the American stance was obviously dictated by fear of that same Soviet Union. Detente is one thing, but any threat to American access to bases surrounding the U.S.S.R. or to the American position in the Mediterranean would be quite another.

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies in Europe are much closer geographically to the Soviet Union and logically should have more to fear in terms of a need for such military conveniences as Greece and Cyprus could provide.

But while the West European allies were about unanimous in damning the junta that toppled President Makarios, the United States minced apprehensively into the situation, finding it painfully awkward.

There can be little quarrel with the American effort, after the coup was an accomplished fact, to prevent a military clash between Greece and Turkey. Such a clash could tear asunder the eastern anchor of NATO.

Still, Washington clearly was singularly diffident about how it handled the Greek regime. There was no outright condemnation of the Cyprus coup. While others protested, Washington pictured itself as "trying to evaluate the situation."

So once again, as it had so many times before, the United States as the leading democracy in the world found itself stepping out of character, solicitous of the sensibilities of a military regime, in glaring contrast with the attitudes of the Western allies.

State Union Seeks Pay For Men

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Local representatives of a state workers union from around the state were to meet here today to decide what action to take to get pay for members who did not cross picket lines during the public employees strike.

"We're not afraid of a strike. We'll do it if necessary," said Jack Kenney of the Joint Organizing Council of Operating Engineers and Laborers Union.

Involved are 65 to 75 state highway division workers in four southern Ohio counties who were "denied access" to work because of pickets by other unions, Kenney said.

Joseph Sommer, state director of administrative services, has said employees who did not work will not be paid. But he pointed out the employees have the right to appeal.

Meanwhile, the head of another state workers union said Friday Sommer had assured him verbally that employees who did not cross picket lines would not be docked.

COMING DOWN—Workers continue to dismantle the old Pickaway County Children's Home piece by piece in an effort to salvage as much of the old structure as possible. The building, an important landmark in the historical development of the county, was built in 1902. It was condemned by the state several years ago. Among memorabilia in the building, workmen have found old report cards and other records of children who lived in the home.

'Preamble Express' Arrives In Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Preamble Express rolled into Columbus' Union Station Friday on a preliminary run along the route to be traveled next year by the bicentennial-celebrating Freedom Train.

The four-car express, painted red, white and blue, is here to begin preparations for the arrival of the Freedom Train when it carries historic U.S. documents to an estimated 50 million Americans along a 17,000-mile route.

Mike Berger, media coordinator of the project, sponsored by the American Freedom Train Foundation, said the express' cross-country journey will take about four months compared to the two-year-long tour the Freedom train will make.

"We're just setting up public relations and arranging for security in the 76 cities where the train will stop," said Nancy Killoran, chief hostess of the project.

Mrs. Killoran, an Ohio native, pointed out that making security arrangements in each city is an "essential part of the preliminary journey not only because of the priceless cargo aboard, but also because it will be necessary to establish some sort of control over the thousands of people viewing the historic memoirs in each city."

Moving walkways will carry 2,000 people an hour through the Freedom's Train's 10 display cars, Berger said. He noted that some items the cars will carry include the final draft of the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution, Betsy Ross' flag and Joe Louis' boxing gloves.

"We're trying to work out some sort of arrangement with city officials and local bicentennial committees," John P. Killoran, general manager railroads for the foundation said.

Killoran said he and his wife meet with local officials because each city is expected to propose a site for the program and arrange parking and sanitation facilities. The cities are also expected to house people traveling on the 24-car Freedom Train, Killoran said.

"Actually it doesn't cost the local districts anything because they get 25 cents of every $1 charged to persons viewing the articles in the display trains," Killoran said.

Each city will also be responsible for providing some sort of entertainment for the traveling stage, which Berger said was converted from a railroad baggage car.

He said local entertainment will range from high school band concerts to ethnic programs.

"We'll stay in each city approximately one to 10 days, and hopefully we can keep the train open for 10 to 14 hours," Berger said.

One third of that time we'll devote to professional entertainment, but two-thirds of the time will be given to the local community for their own events."

For those who are not able to come into the cities to see the displays, the Freedom Train will have two "bubble cars." Rural citizens can see a double-size replica of the Liberty Bell and American transportation vehicles as the train passes through small communities at a slow speed, Berger said.

According to Killoran, the "Childrens Gift Bell" will be made of the copper pennies donated by American schoolchildren.

Some of the vehicles in the second car include a covered wagon and the Apollo 12 capsule, he added.

Berger said the Freedom Train is expected to be in Columbus between July 9-11, 1975. He said that he and the Killorans will work with city officials to plan a site for the program.

Bronze Birch Borer Causes Severe Damage

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

The bronze birch borer has probably single handedly done more to discourage the planting of birch trees and clumps than any other single factor. The white bark birches are not immune to its attack and it is just a matter of time before they become subject to its prey. This usually happens about the time a homeowner or commercial concern becomes attached to the birch in the landscape.

Damage to the trees by the bronze birch borer is caused by the feeding of the larvae just beneath the bark. Several dozen larvae may be feeding at one time and as they meander under the bark, a limb is girdled and dies from the top down. This dying of the uppermost branches of the tree may be the first sign that a tree is infested with the insect. Unfortunately, when the first dying branch is discovered, it probably already is too late to save the tree. A close inspection of the limb below the dead branch will reveal narrow, swollen bands where sap flow has been halted. The accumulation of the sap causes these swellings. Cutting into these areas in the summer of fall generally will reveal a small, whitish larva.

The bronze birch borer will attack paper, yellow, grey, western paper, water and sweet birch plus beech and aspen trees. The cutleaf weeping birch varieties are particularly susceptible.

The bronze birch borer is a greenish-brown colored beetle slightly less than 1/2 inch in length. The winter is spent as a larva in a boat-shaped depression just under the bark. In late April or early May the larva changes to the pupal or resting stage. By early June the adults appear and chew their way through the bark and emerge leaving the characteristic D-shaped emergence hole. After emerging, the adults are active during June and may be seen feeding on the foliage of willow, poplar, aspen and birch, but little damage is done. Shortly after feeding, the females look for crevices or damaged areas in the bark in which to lay their eggs. The eggs hatch in a few days and the young larva chews into the wood and works its way just under the bark. There it feeds in tunnels and grows to a length of nearly one inch. This is usually early fall. It is the tunneling of the larva that causes the death of the branches. There is only one generation per year, or one generation in two years if conditions are not good.

Experience through the years would lead us to conclude that with the white bark birch tree it is just a matter of time before it becomes infested with the bronze birch borer. Knowing this, we would strongly suggest that a substitute tree be planted. However, there are certain things that can be done to prolong the life of trees that are already planted. Here are some points to consider:

Non-Chemical: Injury by the bronze birch borer first appears in the top of a tree. A dead branch may represent the first evidence that this insect is present. If the infestation is not managed at this time, the problem will gradually move downward and in a few years the entire tree will be killed. Prune-out and burn any dead branches before mid-May. It appears that the borers do not do well in trees that are in a good, healthy-growing condition. Apply a regular application of fertilizer each year and water the tree during periods of drought, or if rain has not fallen for 3 weeks. Wrapping the trunk with tree-wrapping paper is of little value because the borers attack the upper branches and not the trunk until late in the life of the tree. Keep from damaging the trunk with a lawn mower, as this may weaken the tree.

Chemical Control: The following chemical control measure, if applied properly, should control the bronze birch borer: Cygon, applied at 1 teaspoon per gallon of water. Apply June 1 and repeat at two week-intervals.

Agriculture Picture Continually Changing

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent
Agriculture

Change is progress. In the last 50 years, Ohio and the rest of the nation has seen more change than in all the previous centuries of recorded history. This progress has come to the farm through research, mechanization, technology, investment, and efficiency, says John E. Moore, Extension Economist at The Ohio State University.

Mechanization has changed every facet of farming. Planting, feeding, harvesting, milking, hay and grain drying, and scores of other agricultural activities, all have been changed by machines.

Within the span of a lifetime, horses pulling clumsy plows have given way to powerful tractors that turn several furrows of earth at once. The time it takes to milk a herd of cows has been shortened by automatic milking machines. Milk is moved through plastic tubing to cooling tanks and collected by large tank trucks that speed it to city processing plants. The traditional metal milk can has almost disappeared.

Today's machines often perform more than one operation, Moore says. Harvesting machines cut the grain, separate, and deliver it to a bin while spewing out the chaff. This machine deserves its name — the combine. It combines three harvesting operations.

Technology has revolutionized farming, too. Potato bugs used to be killed by knocking them off in a can of kerosene. Today, farmers simply spray the field with an approved insecticide. Herbicides have replaced hoes. "Crops that kill weeds don't harm crops or people."

The size of Ohio farms has changed in the last 50 years. Farms are getting larger, but they're mainly family owned and operated. The increase in size usually results in an increase in efficiency.

Farmers have invested heavily in their farms. Land and its improvement, buildings, equipment, livestock, seed, machinery, and supplies add up to one of the largest business working capitals in the country. On January 1, 1940, total farm assets were $454.6 billion — over an 8-1/2-fold increase in 34 years. Farm land and buildings alone totaled $310.4 billion. Ohio farm land and buildings value increased from $1.4 billion in 1940 to $6.8 billion in 1970, Moore says.

The American farmer has become world famous for efficiency. He can produce a bushel of corn with less than 5 minutes of labor and plow an acre of land in 40 minutes. In the decade of the 1960's, the productivity of the American farm worker increased an average of six per cent a year, compared with three per cent in non-agricultural industries.

American farmers are producing 20 per cent more food today than 10 years ago. The purpose of many of the farming improvements through the years has been to produce quality food faster.

The five factors of progress — mechanization, technology, size, investment, and efficiency — all have contributed to help farmers feed America better and faster.

Webworms in Locust Trees

Mimosa webworms are active in locust trees. So, if you have a honey locust, better check the terminals to see if you have webbing, warns Richard L. Miller, Extension Entomologist at The Ohio State University.

First generation larvae appear in late June and early July. A second and probably larger generation appears in August, Miller says.

Now is the time to treat for the first generation. Use either Sevin, Dylox, or Diazinon liquids, or Di-Syston granules (a systemic). Follow instructions on the label.

Pesticides, Sprays and Hot Weather

The question is often asked if plant injury occurs from spraying plants with pesticides during hot weather. Yes, you can get plant injury from spraying in hot, humid weather, according to entomologist Richard L. Miller. This is particularly true when using emulsifiable concentrates which contain oil-base solvents, he says. You'll have less burning with wettable powders or dusts. Too, try not to spray when the temperature is above 90 degrees.

Mealybugs on Taxus

Inspect your Taxus plants. Look down into the center of the plant and for signs of mealybugs. If you see brown needles, little white puffs on the stems, and the plant is a little black, you've got Taxus mealybug. Crawlers are due to come out by the middle of July. Then is the time to apply treatment. Use malathion, Zectran, Dursban, Thriathon, Orthene, or Systox. Driving the spray into the center of the plant is a must for best control.

Giant Moths

If you are one of the many who have noticed a giant moth around your yard this year, the name is Cecropia moth. It has a wing span of over 5 inches. Colors are mainly orange and brown. There are 3 spots on the front wing which catch the eye. One of these spots is close to the body of the moth and is orange with a black border followed by a white and another black border. In the center of the wing is a kind of tear drop shaped spot with a black border and white and orange bands inside. A third spot at the tip of the wing is mostly black with a blue and black border. A large, multi-colored strip runs down the center of the wing between the middle and outer spots.

Cecropia larvae feed on the foliage of a few trees but seldom become pests. This moth makes a great insect collector's item.

MT. PLEASANT GRANGE

Mt. Pleasant Grange met in regular session with Lewis Dean master, presiding over the business meeting. The Charter was draped in memory of Mrs. Counts. A donation was given to the Mt. Pleasant Church in her memory.

Master Dean asked the members to help with the gates at the fair. Margaret Dean, chairman of women's activities, asked for the women to help Pomona Grange on Thursday.

A contribution was made to help host the Star Grange Convention this fall and a contribution was also made to the volunteer service chairman of the State Hospital in Columbus to provide for the pleasure of the patients who attend the Ohio State Fair.

Next regular meeting Aug. 14 to Have a picnic at Hargus Lake. Each family take own meat for a cookout and covered dish to share with others.

September Lunch Committee will be Mr. and Mrs. Galen Mowery and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Ruhl.

The literary Program was in charge of Mrs. Margaret Dean, chairman of women's activities. Mt. Pleasant United Methodist Women were guests. Mrs. Dean told of the various activities and community services of the past year. Many Grange women showed their hobbies, crafts, and arts.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rittering and Mr. and Mrs. John Moss.

Meat Imports Decline Sharply

WASHINGTON (AP) — New government figures show that meat imports, including the kinds of beef the Nixon administration is under pressure from cattlemen to restrict, have dropped sharply in recent months.

During the first five months, the Agriculture Department said Thursday, imports of red meat — including fresh and processed beef, pork and lamb — totaled 734.5 million pounds. Although that was less than a 3 per cent drop from January-May of last year, the decline has picked up momentum.

According to the figures, total imports in May dropped to 124.9 million pounds from 164.3 million in the same month of 1973, a decline of nearly 25 per cent.

Processed meat such as canned hams and corned beef have not been subject to import quotas and can come into the U.S. market as freely as those products are demanded. However, imports of fresh, frozen and chilled beef are subject to import curbs under a 1964 quota law.

Fifteen countries provide "quota-type" meat to the U.S. market, including Australia and New Zealand which supply more than 70 per cent of it during the year. Imports of quota-type meat, mostly low-grade beef for hamburger, were down 5 per cent in January-May from a year earlier to 477.3 million pounds.

Cutbacks have occurred for a variety of reasons, but most importantly because of an increase in world beef supplies and a drop in export prices. Also, Australia has good pastures now and is keeping many cattle in pastures rather than selling them for slaughter at reduced prices.

For all of 1974, USDA officials estimate quota-type imports will be about 1.21 billion pounds, down sharply from more than 1.57 billion expected three months ago for all of this year.

President Nixon suspended the 1964 quota restrictions two years ago at a time when more beef was wanted to help U.S. consumers. But recent declines in cattle prices have prompted many calls for the curbs to be reimposed. Officials say, however, that since imports are being scaled back of their own accord the quotas are not needed at this time.

Although the quota-type meat comprises about two-thirds of total meat imported by the United States, other kinds are important in the overall consumer market and to American livestock producers.

The quota-type meat comes only from countries known to be free of food-and-mouth disease and other livestock ailments which could be passed into the United States in uncooked products. That is why no South American country, for example, shares in the quotameat trade.

But Argentina, where foot-and-mouth disease exists, is a major supplier of processed beef to the United States. During January-May those shipments jumped to 49.7 million pounds from 32.1 million a year earlier.

Denmark is the leading foreign supplier of pork, much of it as canned hams, with 61.5 million pounds shipped to the U.S. market during the five-month period, about the same as last year. The Netherlands, Poland, Canada, Yugoslavia, Romania and Hungary are among other pork shippers.

Wheat Plans Unannounced

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department still has not decided whether to announce details of the government's 1975 wheat program soon or delay it until mid-August when further information about this year's production is available.

A spokesman said Thursday there had been some feeling earlier that a final decision on 1975 wheat plans should be delayed until after the USDA's next crop report on Aug. 12.

But an upturn in wheat prices recently may prompt winter wheat growers — who have to begin planting their 1975 crop in another month or two — to go all-out next year regardless of what the USDA decides.

One decision that will be made is whether to require or offer farmers the opportunity to take some of their wheat land from 1975 production as a hedge against possible surpluses. But that possibility appears remote now, since 1974 harvest prospects have been trimmed substantially from earlier indications.

News For Homemakers

By BEVERLY BECHTEL
County Extension Agent,

The Extension Office is really a hive of activity these days, as we complete hundreds of details for the Pickaway County Fair. This week's activities include the judging of 4-H projects in Outdoor Cookery I and II, Monday evening, 6 o'clock, at Ted Lewis Park. We decided to do this judging before the fair because of the number of members involved and the rather hazardous condition of having all those grazals at the fair. If anyone is interested in observing the outdoor cookery competition, please join us!

I have a nice offer from the Foley Manufacturing Company. They will send twenty-five dollars worth of free kitchen utensils to our 4-H student doing the most outstanding work in food preparation projects. Since we have a "winner" in each category, I will put all the winners' names in a box and draw out the name of the girl to win and send it to the company for the award.

This week the State Extension Home Council met at the Fawcett Center of Tomorrow. Mrs. Alice Herron, our County Extension Homemakers president, and Mrs. Emily Berry, County vice-president, accompanied me to the meeting.

We received good ideas for the coming year's extension homemaker program. Two state-wide topics to be taught this fall are "Know Yourself" and "Know Your Talents."

Our County Home Council is very proud that Mrs. Emily Berry will be one of the few extension homemakers from Ohio who will be attending the National Extension Homemakers meeting in Champaign, Illinois, in August.

Sixteen hundred and seventy-four Pickaway County 4-H'ers are preparing to go to the Pickaway County Fair. They are doing all their last minute preparations to make this the biggest and best fair ever.

The Pickaway County Fair, which will be held this Sunday, July 28, through Friday, August 2, features a junior fair which is made up of representatives from 4-H, FFA, FHA, Girl Scouts, and Boy Scouts.

Urge Farm Freedom

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The president of the nation's largest farm organization says American Farmers can compete in the world market if government will leave agriculture alone.

William Kuhfuss, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, said Thursday labor interests and consumer groups opposing high food prices have influenced government to impose price controls and farm export embargoes. These disrupt orderly livestock marketing and discourage producers, he said.

Kuhfuss called last year's embargo on soybean exports "the most catastrophic thing that ever happened to U.S. agriculture, because it shattered foreign confidence in us as a reliable supplier." Kuhfuss was in Louisville for an agricultural export trade conference.

The hot summertime is such a danger period for food spoilage. Remember that cooked meat should be refrigerated. It should not be out of the refrigerator for more than four hours, and that is "accumulative." If you set it out two hours today, and leftovers two hours tomorrow, use it all up because your four "safe" hours are gone.

Here are a few other reminders on meat preparation — give yourself a spot check. How are you doing?

Never place other foods on a surface where you have had raw meat or poultry until you have thoroughly cleaned it. Scrub the surface — as well as dishes, knives, and other utensils you've used — with soap and hot water. This keeps harmful bacteria from spreading to cooked foods and salads.

Remove stubborn bacteria from cutting boards by scrubbing the boards with soap and hot water, rinsing thoroughly, and then applying chlorine bleach.

Refrigerate cream, custard, and meringue pies, and other foods with custard fillings. It is dangerous to let foods of this kind stand at room temperature.

Roasting a turkey? Cook it completely to an internal temperature of 185 degrees. Never partially cook it and finish cooking later because bacteria can survive in partially-cooked poultry. Also "staph" bacteria may produce toxins.

Preparing stuffing? Cook it thoroughly. If the poultry is stuffed, cook until thermometer inserted into stuffing reaches at least 165 degrees — bacteria grow rapidly in lukewarm stuffing.

Frozen stuffed poultry? Do not thaw it before baking. Put it right into the oven.

variety of areas. These might be livestock and horses or clothing and cooking or a variety of miscellaneous projects including motorcycles, dogs, rabbits, model airplanes, bicycles, health care and vegetable gardening.

The members have been working on their projects and attending meetings since March. The county fair is the culmination of many weeks of fun and learning by doing. This is the place where members can bring their projects for everyone in the whole county to see. They will be judged on the project but also on their knowledge about the project. Each member is given a grade ribbon from the judge.

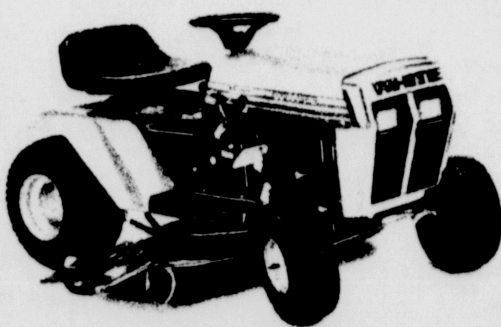

Even though judging is a major part of the fair agenda, the most important aspect of the fair is the opportunity it gives members to show off their work, get a real feeling of accomplishment, learn that everyone is not a winner but the member is no less a person for not being a winner, learn to meet and interact with other children and adults. This leads to building blue ribbon kids and not blue ribbon projects.

I hope that each and everyone of you will be able to attend the fair and see the kids and their projects.

Reactor For Tito

For some inexplicable reason the people at the U.S. Export-Import Bank have been throwing around large, low-interest loans to communist countries with an abandonment reminiscent of a Santa Claus with too much vodka under his belt.

Despite rising threats by Congress to cut off the bank's funding if it doesn't sober up, Ex-Im has done it again. Just before its fiscal 1974 authority expired, the bank granted a $176 million loan to Yugoslavia, another communist country, for a nuclear reactor.

Until now congressional criticism of the bank's operations have centered on its low-interest loans to build industries in the communist world at a time when American manufacturers frequently must pay more than 10 per cent for similar borrowings. Critics have been given the added argument that this is the first time a nuclear reactor will be subsidized by American taxpayers for a communist country.

Originally, the purpose of the Ex-Im Bank was to promote trade with other countries by supplying them the wherewithal to buy American products. Such projects as a nuclear reactor in Yugoslavia or the world's largest truck factory in Russia are far removed from the original purpose.

Eagle Has Taken Wing

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — People ... Places

A civilian could break out with goose-bumps, just being in the same room with Tooeey Spaatz. The first Air Force Chief of Staff, dead at 83, was something to behold. He was a mighty eagle, relaxed but ready. His readiness to serve his country had been abundantly evident since, fresh out of West Point, he served with John J. Pershing's expedition into Mexico.

Gen. Spaatz commanded or was in on the birth of every important step the U.S. air military ever took. He risked his career by championing the crusade of Gen. Billy Mitchell, to keep the infant Army Air Corps alive after World War I. He and his fellow junior officer, Ira Eaker, astonished the world in 1929 by remaining airborne 151 hours, by means of the then highly risky air-refueling system. He was sent to England a year before Pearl Harbor, to observe the Battle of Britain. And mixed in, for the hell of it.

He was in charge of the U.S. air war against Rommel in the desert, and put a fighter and bomber umbrella over Eisenhower's invasion of Italy. He was, in effect, the father of the Army Eighth Air Force's strategic daylight bombing of Nazi-held Europe, then took over the B-29s that battered Japan into surrender, and stood with MacArthur and Nimitz on the deck of the U.S.S. Missouri the day of surrender — just as he was part of the surrender ceremony of the Germans at Rheims. He headed the board that selected Colorado Springs as the site of the Air Force Academy.

The General was a delightfully salty soul.

In an interview with him at his home in Washington, not long after world War II, I gave the customary lip-service to the role the A-bombs of Hiroshima and Nagasaki had played in peremptorily snuffing out the war.

"Nonsense," Tooeey snorted. "We'd have won in three more weeks with conventional bombs."

In Toots Shor's place late one night, Frank Conniff, who worshipped him, listened for a time to some complaint the General had uttered. The correspondent gave the General some advice.

"Why don't you tell the President?" Frank urged.

Tooeey looked at his admirer with a steady stare and said, "Frank, you don't tell the President. He tells you."

The General had some still viable counsel for his friend Gen. Emmett O'Donnell when O'Donnell, just home from Korea, was in a mood to explode on the witness chair before a Senate committee questioning the recently discharged Douglas MacArthur.

"Rosy," Tooeey said, "When you take the chair tomorrow don't tell them any lies. But, on the other hand, don't blurt the truth."

The president of Eisenhower College, John Rosenkrans, writes:

"Respecting your concern for the college, let me tell you briefly where we stand. The Eisenhower Memorial legislation, authorizing $1 to Eisenhower College out of the scale of each $10 proof Eisenhower Dollar and passed twice by the Senate, will be presented again to the House Banking and Currency Committee for a vote, I am advised, within the next two weeks. Chairman Wright Patman is sponsor of the legislation.

"That bill will now be amended to limit the funds to Eisenhower College to $10,000,000. Ten per cent of that will go to the Sam Rayburn Library in Denison, Texas, where General Eisenhower was born, to effect an affiliation between the library and Eisenhower College. Mr. Sam's papers will become a fine resource as a result, for students, those of Eisenhower College and others.

"I don't have to document for you that this college meant so much to General Eisenhower that it was the vital topic of conversation with two of his last visitors in Walter Reed. It is imperative that the college continue, not always in austerity but with sufficient funds to operate in a manner befitting the name it bears.

"As you know, if Eisenhower College were, let's say, Central City College, there could be no justification for such special legislation. The difference, of course, is that it is Eisenhower College — the national, living memorial to the 34th President. The sum involved to assure its enduring life is not large when compared with the $47,000,000 plus which have gone to the Kennedy Center."

Rent Bill Under Study

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A six-member Senate-House committee working on a landlord-tenant bill will meet Monday to try to finalize details, Rep. Michael P. Stinziano, D-30 Columbus, said Thursday.

He is the chief House sponsor of the measure which the committee hopes to bring up for final action in the legislature Tuesday when lawmakers reconvene to consider the new $124 million supplemental appropriations bill.

Stinziano said the committee, at its last meeting, adopted seven of eleven proposed amendments and that he thinks an agreement should come without difficulty.

The bill would permit tenants to withhold rent from landlords for failing to maintain their property, make tenants responsible for damages, and otherwise spell out the rights and responsibilities of each in the state code for the first time, the Columbus Democrat said.

Dear Editor:

On June 14, 1974, your paper stated that the Methodist Church had eased its stand on abortion. At this time the Church of the Brethren of Circleville would like to restate its position taken in 1972 and recently reaffirmed.

We are against abortion totally. We feel that a human life is a gift of God, it is sacred in any form, and we as humans have no right to terminate human life, which is God given.

A common argument given to favor abortion is that the baby "might" be a threat to the mothers physical or mental well-being. However most doctors agree that with our excellent medical care, abortion is simply not necessary to save the life of the mother. Also abortion doesn't alleviate mental problems, rather it contributes to mental anguish due to guilt feelings. "Did I kill my baby?" Many a woman must ask herself that question.

Another argument to favor abortion is the argument that the baby "might" be the result of rape or incest. We feel the unborn child is an innocent being, and is in no way responsible for its own conception, and should not be punished for its parents crime.

The primary reason we have to stand against abortion, is that the fetus that the mother already carries, is already a human being. The Bible uses personal pronouns when speaking of the unborn - even from the time of conception. The unborn baby is a human being, and to terminate a human life is murder.

The unborn baby is a person and has a right to live. The unborn baby is not merely a potential human being, but a human being with potential.

Please put an end to legalized murder. God loves you and aren't you glad you weren't aborted.

With Love in Jesus,

Pickaway County Prosecutor William Ammer announced that action of the county commissioners, giving county approval for the Route 23 bypass, has been completed. It gave county sanction to the city's proposal to withdraw a western section of the corporate limits so that the state could build and maintain the new highway between the city and the Scioto River.

Voting places in various townships throughout Pickaway County where farmers were to decide on 1955 marketing quota were announced. The vote also was expected to affect parity prices.

City council was asked to change the water stand which spouted water steadily for 24 hours a day to an automatic drinking fountain. It was located in the lobby of city hall. The city's water bill for three months was $230, about the price of an automatic fountain.

Council also was expected to rule on the city's stray dog laws. The original ordinance affected only strays in the summer months, allowing dogs to run at will during the remainder of the year.

Chairman Bob Adkins and member Ward Skinner of the City Planning and Zoning Commission threatened to resign their posts when a man complained that he did not get satisfactory action from the planning group.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

The importance of the family physician in the total structure of health care seems to be increasing rather than decreasing.

An intensive study of medical practice and community medicine was the subject of a seminar held at the Ben Gurion University of the Negev, in Israel.

The Israel Journal of Medical Science, reporting this meeting, points out that 85 per cent to 90 per cent of all family health problems in the United States are treated by the family physician.

Dr. I. Lewis, of the Albert Einstein College of Medicine in New York, was one of the principal speakers on the topic, "Is There a Future for Family Medicine?"

"Family physicians," he said, "must be prepared to fill a unique and specific functional role in the delivery of modern comprehensive health services."

The American Academy of Family Physicians has extended its training program so that today's family physician is, indeed, a "specialist" in this important field of comprehensive medicine.

People with stomach ulcers know the distress of being awakened in the middle of the night by pain.

A new synthetic drug, metiamide, taken at bedtime seems to be the answer to these unpleasant nocturnal pains.

Dr. G. J. Milton-Thompson, of the Royal Naval Hospital in Plymouth, England, reports that when this drug is taken at bedtime it "significantly reduces acid secretion in the stomach," the culprit responsible for these ulcer pains.

The preliminary series of cases on which this was tried will be expanded to verify the efficacy of metiamide.

Women who ovulate irregularly often fail to conceive. In order to increase their chances of fertility, Dr. E. M. Grimes, at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital in Boston, has been injecting a synthetic hormone to stabilize ovulation and thus increase the chances of conception.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite some bad experiences with controls, the idea of voluntary wage and price restraints continues to be entertained in business and government circles as a way of combating inflation.

Apparently little support, however, exists for credit controls, even though it is in the borrowing area that the greatest strains currently are being made on the economic system.

In testimony this week before the House Ways and Means Committee, the man most influential in determining the nation's credit policy, Arthur F. Burns, suggested the reimposition of voluntary wage-price controls. Credit controls weren't discussed.

The irony of this is two-fold.

First, many critics of economic policy feel that credit restraint by price alone, that is, by permitting interest rates to rise, has failed. As rates rose, demand failed to diminish.

Second, a law already in the books that would permit the Federal Reserve, of which Burns is chairman, to enforce credit controls or allocate loans by a system other than price.

Activation of the law would be automatic if the President were to determine it was "necessary or appropriate for the purpose of preventing or controlling inflation generated by extension of credit in excessive volume ..."

The authority is contained in Public Law 91-515, signed Dec. 23, 1969, permitting the President to regulate and control any or all extensions of credit.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Department of Public Welfare announced Thursday that it had received a federal grant for over $363,000 to fund management training courses for child welfare personnel.

Steel Workers Vote Strike End

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — The 450 steel workers at Wein United, Inc., in Canton voted Thursday to end a wildcat strike and return to work.

Company officials said talks also began Thursday on local issues involved in the strike, which began earlier this week.

brokerage house of Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis claims that credit allocation via cost hasn't worked. The reason, it adds, is clear: "Interest rates have not reached a level whereby the borrower has incurred any real cost."

The payment by a corporation of 10 per cent a year on a bond issue might appear to be costly, the broker explains, but that's only if you overlook the fact that nearly one-half of that is written off by the 48 per cent corporate tax rate.

The remainder is likely to disappear in inflation. That is, the corporate borrower will be paying back in cheaper dollars. Assume a 5 per cent annual inflation rate and the entire cost is dissipated.

In the view of some financial men, consideration of credit controls now may have become an academic rather than a practical exercise. They feel that signs of lessening credit demand soon will appear.

Impeachment Data Studied

WASHINGTON (AP) — The case for impeachment will be presented to the House Judiciary Committee by its staff at two closed-door briefings leading up to the committee's final deliberations next week.

At the first session today, special counsel John Doar is expected to propose at least three broad articles of impeachment charging President Nixon with obstruction of justice, abuse of his constitutional powers and contempt of Congress.

A Republican member of the committee predicted on Thursday that both the committee and the House will approve at least one article, leading to a Senate trial to determine whether Nixon should be removed from office.

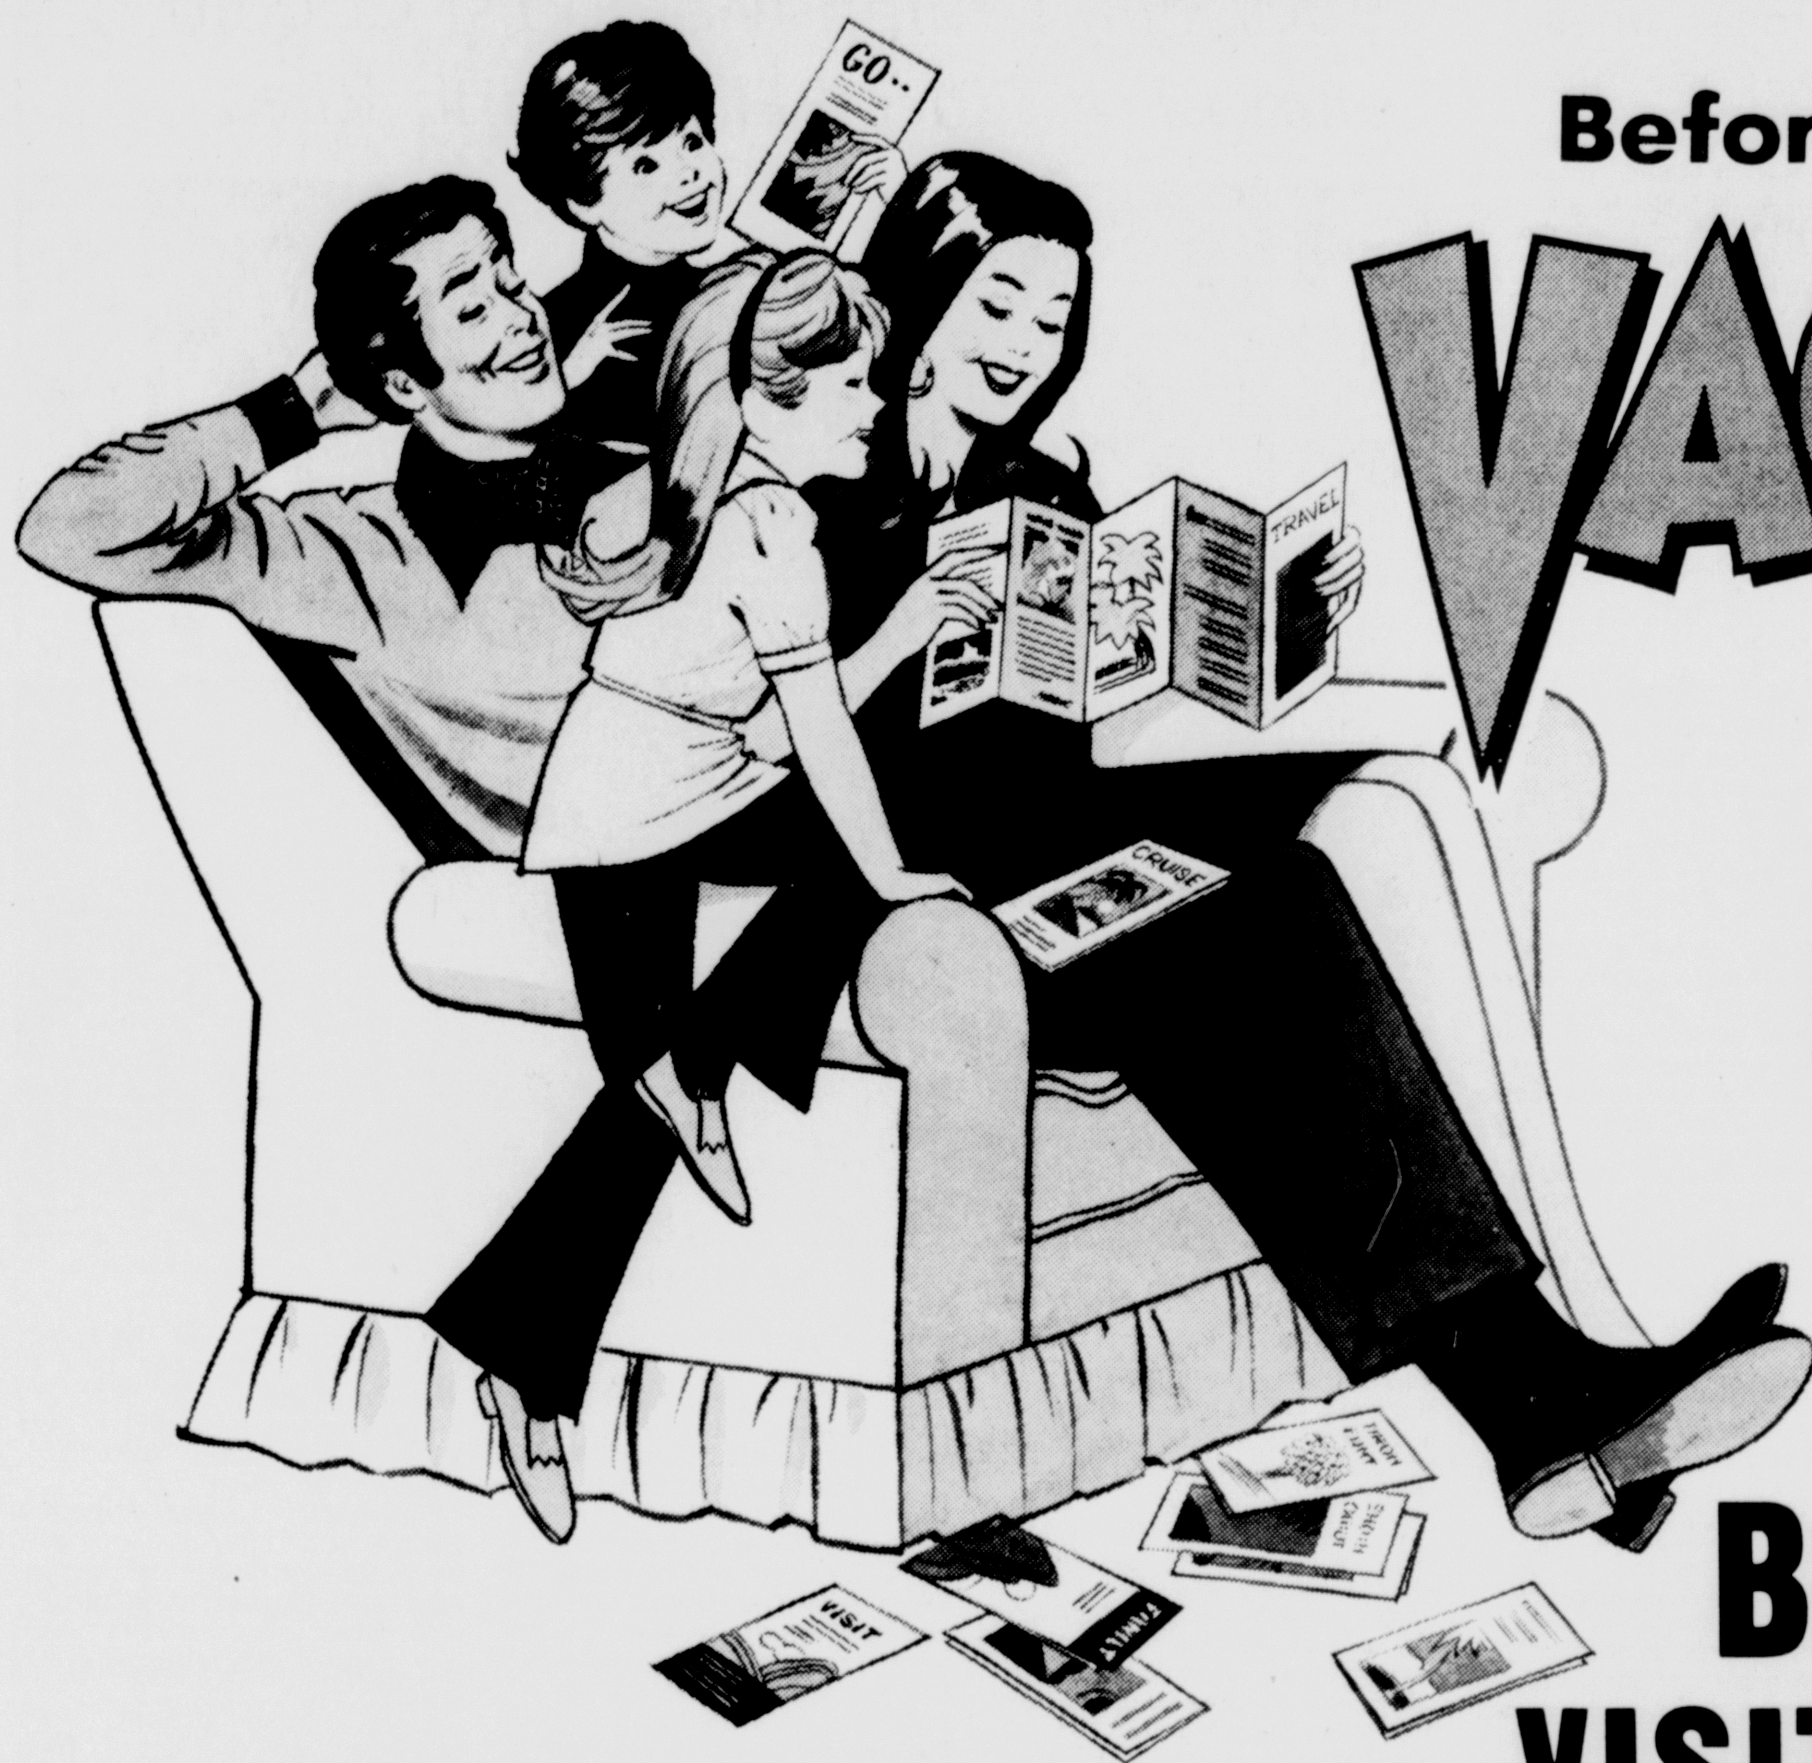

Rep. Robert McClory, R-Ill., told newsmen that three or four committee Republicans are likely to vote for impeachment and that it could be much higher. He said only five of 17 Republican members could be counted as definitely opposed to impeachment at this time.

At a meeting called by the House Republican leadership to determine where the committee Republicans stand, McClory was one of five members who either said they were undecided or declined to give their views.

The others were Reps. Caldwell Butler of Virginia, William S. Cohen of Maine, Hamilton Fish of New York and Tom Railsback of Illinois. Some others indicated their position will be determined by the articles of impeachment that are proposed.

Chaplain John Patterson and the Rev. Thurman Beavers officiated the double ring service at Lindsey Crossman Chapel of Baldwin-Wallace College, Berea, Ohio. The altar was adorned with vases of peach gladioli, white poms and yellow carnations, and flanked with candles.

The processional "Trumpet Voluntary" by Purcell was played by Mr. Robert Schneider, organist. Mr. Michael Fennhahn, soloist, sang "One Hand, One Heart", "Wedding Song," and as the couple received Holy Communion, "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was given in marriage by her father and mother. She was attired in a formal length gown of white double layered peau de soie. The empire bodice featured short puffed sleeves and stand-up collar trimmed with delicate feathery lace. The waistline and hem of the skirt, flowing into a chapel train, were enhanced with matching lace. The bride's elbow length veil of illusion was held by a Juliet cap trimmed with lace and seed pearls. She carried a colonial bouquet of peach roses, white carnations and blue poms with a shower of white streamers. She wore a cameo locket which belonged to her grandmother and the six-pence carried by her mother at her wedding.

Mrs. Mark Ralston was matron of honor and Miss Peggy Beale was maid of honor. They wore patterned formal length gowns of polyester in shades of blue with empire waists, scoop necklines and cap sleeves. Mrs. Ralston carried a cluster of yellow carnations tied with yellow ribbons and Miss Beale, peach carnations with matching ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Miss Joyce Valentine and Mrs. Don Bucher, cousins of the bride. They were gowned as the maid of honor and carried peach carnations.

Master Robbie Valentine, brother of the bride, was ring bearer.

Mr. Gildon Stillings, fraternity brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Mr. Don Valentine, brother of the bride, Mr. Brian Penney, a friend and Mr. John Harrington, fraternity brother.

Mrs. Valentine wore for her daughter's wedding a long sleeved light peach formal length gown of textured double knit crepe with white accessories.

Mrs. Delamater wore a short sleeved ivory formal length gown in the A-line style with matching accessories. Corsages for both mothers were of yellow carnations and daisies.

A reception in Persim Rug Area of Strosacker Hall, Baldwin-Wallace College Union, followed the ceremony. The bride's table, covered with a blue cloth, held vases of peach, yellow and white flowers and was centered with a four tiered cake topped with a miniature replica of the bridal bouquet. Yellow and blue daisies accented the white covered guest tables. Hostesses were Mrs. William Kinney, Mrs. Michael Hurskey Sr. and Miss Donna Hurskey. Miss Kathy Valentine, cousin of the bride, presided at the guest book and Miss Debbie Radabaugh distributed rice packets.

As the couple left for a wedding trip to Washington D. C. and Florida where they visited Disney World and Long Beach Bay, the bride wore a violet print long dress with a white collar and white accessories. Her corsage was of pink edged white miniature roses. The couple will reside at 13714 Madison, Lakewood, Ohio 44107.

The bride is a graduate of Circleville High School and Baldwin-Wallace College. She is employed by Summer '74 (an ecumenical summer program for children and youth of Lakewood.) She is a member of Zeta Tau Alpha sorority and will be attending Boston University School of Theology in September.

Politics Charged In OWDA Firing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Natural Resources Director William Nye has denied a charge that the dismissal of Ned Williams as executive director of the Ohio Water Development Authority was politically motivated.

Nye, a member of the authority board, responded Thursday night to an accusation by Sen. Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, that Williams' firing was "for purely political reasons."

Maloney said Williams' dismissal was "part of what I have considered a plan of the governor's office to totally politicize the environmental protection of this state."

Nye said the governor's office "had no part" in the action. He said Williams was fired because Democrats on the board "felt the authority had more potential than it was achieving and needed some new guidance."

One of the problems, he said, was that the authority needed a "personality in charge who was more responsive to public requests for information. The other problems just fall into the category of a lack of creativity," he added.

Maloney, who was instrumental in creating the authority, praised the work of the agency under Williams' direction.

"I know he was hired without regard to politics and I know that the agency has performed in an unusually effective way since its creation and at a minimum taxpayer expense and minimum staff," Maloney said.

Williams, named executive director of the authority after it was created in 1968, was dismissed by a 4-3 vote of the board. His assistant, Ben Ransom, was named acting director while a board committee seeks a replacement.

Williams said Gov. John Gilligan recently appointed three new members of the authority "and they decided they would like their own director."

Voting for dismissal were Nye, authority Chairman Ned Skeldon of Toledo, Philip M. Zanella of Cleveland, who offered the resolution to dismiss and Dr. Ira Whitman, director of the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency.

Voting against dismissal were Sharon D. Bresler of Lima, Eugene H. Hanhart of Dover and Edwin F. Mulligan of Coshocton.

Williams said Bresler resigned from the board following the action.

Court Sets Bonds For Ricky Jester

Bonds were set earlier in the week for the five charges against Ricky Lee Jester, Route 1, New Holland. Jester was charged by the Pickaway County Sheriff's office after he attempted to escape from Deputy Lawrence Holt.

The deputy was taking Jester to the county jail after picking him up for disorderly conduct in New Holland. Jester tried to choke Holt from behind and was shot during the struggle.

Jester appeared in his hospital gown before acting municipal court judge Lemuel Weldon who scheduled the hearings and set bond in the cases. Bonds of $5,000 each were set on attempting to escape and attempted murder. These two charges are felonies and will ultimately be bound to the grand jury. Bonds of $24 were set on the lesser charges of intoxication and disorderly conduct. The acting judge also placed Jester under $100 bond for resisting arrest.

The date of the hearing was changed since the court-appointed attorney, Stephen Gussler, was the acting judge on Thursday, the original date. A new hearing time has not been set at this time.

Charge Pair In Slaying

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Two Cincinnati men charged with killing Patrolman David Cole Wednesday could face the death penalty.

Roland Reaves and Ricardo Woods, both 23, were indicted by a Hamilton County grand jury Friday. The five-man, six-woman jury specified the death penalty if the two are convicted.

The jury said three grounds provided for the death penalty by the Ohio Revised Code are present in the case.

According to a court spokesman the death penalty is specified by the code since Cole's assailants shot him to escape apprehension, while fleeing from an aggravated robbery and purposely, knowing he was an on-duty policeman.

Reaves and Cole are scheduled for arraignment Monday in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court.

Reaves was arrested in Cincinnati Thursday and Woods was arrested Friday at Clarksburg, W. Va. Reaves' sister, Connie, was with Woods at the time of his arrest, West Virginia State Police reported. He surrendered at the home of relatives without resistance.

Two Cincinnati detectives were to go to Fairmont, W. Va., to question Woods today. Woods, who Cincinnati police say has waived extradition, is being held on $100,000 bond.

Reaves was arrested in an apartment he and Woods rented in Cincinnati's Mount Auburn section. The apartment is about a half-mile from where Cole was slain.

Cole, 24, was shot to death as he attempted to stop two burglary suspects running from a dairy store, police said.

Police said two other persons are being sought in connection with the burglary.

Cole was to be buried this morning with a cemetery escort by a motorcade of police from throughout Ohio.

Other cases during the week's docket included eight dismissals and four youths released from probation.

The court released an 18-year-old Circleville boy after he had served time on probation for breaking and entering and a 17-year-old Route 1, Ashville boy on charges of being incorrigible and school truancy.

Also released from probation were an 18-year-old Circleville boy originally charged with being incorrigible and a 17-year-old Lockbourne boy.

One case against a Sabina boy charged with having a concealed weapon was transferred to Clinton County, the boy's home county, for disposition.

Upon agreement of the assistant county prosecutor, James R. Kingsley, Judge Guy G. Cline dismissed a dependency case involving an eight-year-old Route 1, Lockbourne boy. Also dismissed were cases against a Sabina boy charged with aiding and abetting and complicity and six other dependency cases.

NEWEST SERVICE—The newest most efficient and convenient way to purchase freshly mixed concrete is being offered to home-owners, farmers, contractors and do-it-yourselfers by Pickaway Mobile Concrete, 135 W. Water St. The plant is located on Island Road. This company's new "concrete-mobile" which already has been put to work is a combination of materials transporter and complete but highly mobile system for accurately proportioning concrete materials. This unique new machine, which is mounted on a truck, hauls the materials to the job site before they are mixed. Upon arrival, the driver-operator determines the proper mix for the job then quickly adjusts the patented Dial-A-Mix controls to produce the concrete with exactly the right strength and consistency for the job. Probably the most unique feature about custom concrete-mobile service is that the customer is given an automatically printed delivery ticket, similar to those used by fuel oil suppliers when they make deliveries, which shows exactly the quantity of concrete that was delivered. Pickaway mobile concrete's new unit can transport enough material to produce up to 10 cubic yards of specification concrete at any delivery point that can be reached by the vehicle on which it is mounted.

Woman Struggles To Walk Again

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Nancy Herbert has been struggling for the last eight years to walk again, and Sunday she'll leave for two years of acupuncture treatments in Taiwan that her family hopes will relieve her paralysis.

The pretty, 24-year-old blonde from Withamsville, in nearby Clermont County, broke her neck and bruised her spinal cord in an accident when she lost control of her car on an icy street eight years ago.

"The doctors told us to make funeral arrangements, but she hung on," her mother said. Then they said "You've got a vegetable, feed it."

Miss Herbert said doctors thought she would not be able to move from the waist down. She has undergone 13 operations, five of them major.

"They tell you that if your nerves don't come back within six months they never will," Nancy said. "But that's a bunch of... well, I won't say it."

The Herberts have continued to help Nancy with physical therapy. She is now able to swim in a backyard pool.

After reading about Alabama Gov. George Wallace's acupuncture treatments, Nancy learned the name of Wallace's doctor from the governor's office last August.

Dr. Ling Sung-chu gave Miss Herbert 10 treatments, which alleviated many nerve problems.

"Dr. Ling said he could cure me if I took regular treatments for two years," Nancy said. "But I couldn't afford to fly to New York for weekly treatments."

In June she returned to the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., for evaluation of an operation that gave her movement in her hands. There she met Ed Rehfeldt III, an RCA executive in Taiwan.

Rehfeldt convinced Nancy to go to Taiwan for acupuncture treatments.

"He even sent me the plane tickets," Nancy said. "I'm going to live in his home and his father is providing me

Nancy's parents will go with her to help her adjust and train a maid to assist her.

Nancy receives $97.50 a month from Supplemental Social Security, her only income, but she said she would lose her eligibility when she leaves the country.

"They will not make any medical exceptions," Nancy said.

U.S. Rep. Donald Clancy, R-Ohio, said he would introduce legislation Monday to help people who must travel abroad for longer than 30 days, after which their eligibility for Supplemental Social Security ends.

An anonymous benefactor said he would contribute $2,500 to help Nancy in the meantime.

"The only thing wrong with me is that I can't walk," Nancy said. "If it works, fine. If it doesn't, I'll try something else. I'm gonna walk—come hell or high water."

Teachers Sue For Pay Boosts

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Mansfield Education Association demanded that the school board give them pay and benefit increases in a suit filed in Richland County Common Pleas Court Friday.

The suit contends the increases were withheld even though they were agreed to in a contract effective Jan. 1. The association asked for $150,000 in damages.

School officials said the increases were based on approval of a school levy which failed when put before voters.

President's Orders Against Leaks Bared

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nothing in more than 2,000 pages of domestic surveillance evidence gathered by the House Judiciary Committee shows clearly that President Nixon approved specific illegal acts by his assistants.

But the record shows that the President set no limit on what his aides should do to halt newspaper stories about sensitive U.S. diplomatic plans.

Nixon reserved some of his worst language for describing career government bureaucrats who talked freely with reporters about U.S. foreign policy.

He distrusted them so much that he seriously considered ordering lie detector tests for more than 1,000 State Department, Pentagon and Central Intelligence Agency employees, not because he thought they were all responsible for news leaks, but, in the President's words, so he could "immediately scare the bastards."

"Listen, I don't know anything about polygraphs and I don't know how accurate they are but I know they'll scare hell out of people," Nixon said, according to a presidential transcript released for the first time on Thursday.

Nixon feared the leaks would jeopardize the strategic arms limitation talks. He thought Daniel Ellsberg likely had more than the Pentagon papers Vietnam War study to make public.

He did not believe that making his foreign policy public before it was fully carried out was necessary to the democracy.

Former White House special Counsel Charles W. Colson quoted Nixon as saying in late June 1971, "I don't give a damn how it is done, do whatever has to be done to stop these leaks and prevent further unauthorized disclosures; I don't want to be told why it can't be done."

As a result, wiretaps were placed on the telephones of newsmen and National Security Council staff members. The late FBI director, J. Edgar Hoover, not known for open and friendly relations with reporters, objected and wouldn't even allow the files about the taps against suspected news leakers to be kept in FBI files.

The wiretap files eventually ended up in the White House.

Later, the special White House investigative unit called the plumbers was formed. Even as the plumbers were planning the break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, Nixon was complaining to aide John D. Ehrlichman that their efforts were "not vigorous enough."

Reds Top Chicago Cubs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A sore-armed pitcher helped Cincinnati to its 4-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs Friday night, but a Los Angeles hurler with a pain in the neck kept the Reds from gaining ground on the National League West Division leaders.

Jack Billingham, troubled with stiffness in his right shoulder since spring training, struggled to gain his 10th triumph of the season.

He lasted until the Chicago sixth inning before Pedro Borbon relieved and finished the game with four innings of two-hit ball.

Bill Plummer and George Foster each drove in two runs to pace Cincinnati's 13th victory in 16 games. The hot streak has brought the Reds within 6 1/2 games of the Dodgers, but stiff-necked Doug Rau beat the Philadelphia Phillies to keep the margin from dwindling further.

Unlike Billingham, Rau didn't suffer much before the game. But he wasn't around at the finish. Mike Marshall was, as he has been in most Los Angeles games this season.

It was the second time Rau and Marshall combined for a 4-0 decision. They beat the Expos by that score on April 28.

Mets 4, Padres 2
Jerry Grote had two hits and drove in two runs to back Jon Matlack's five-hitter and lead New York past San Diego.

Padres second baseman Horace

Clarke opened the way for four unearned Mets runs to score in the sixth inning, when he muffed Rusty Staub's ground ball.

Clarence Gaston's sixth home run of the season gave the Padres a 1-0 lead in the fourth inning.

Giants 6, Expos 2
Gary Matthews hit two-run singles in the third and fifth, while Mike Caldwell and Randy Moffitt teamed for a six-hitter to carry San Francisco past Montreal.

Pirates 2, Braves 0
Ken Brett pitched a five-hitter and drove in one run with a fifth-inning sacrifice fly, highlighting Pittsburgh's sixth consecutive victory.

All-time home run king Hank Aaron started for the Braves after a three-game absence due to a knee injury, tying Ty Cobb's major league record of 3,033 games played.

Astros 5, Cards 1
Houston's Lee May drove in three runs with a single and his 17th home run of the season and Tom Griffin raised his record to 11-3 with a 7 2-3 inning performance to beat St. Louis.

Joe Torre drove in a run with a fourth-inning triple for the Cardinals, who suffered their seventh consecutive loss and 13th in 14 games.

Phil Ballou and Jason Happenny banged triples for Rotary and Brian Radcliff and Vic Riffle poked doubles.

Blue Ribbon Dairy 14, Savings Bank 5
Blue Ribbon Dairy's win upped its mark to 8-3 for the year and gave them the league lead.

Bill Smith went the distance for the win. He allowed 10 hits, walked three and struck-out nine.

Bosman No-Hitter Stops A's

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Cleveland's Dick Bosman was perfect throwing to the plate but imperfect throwing to first base and that one imperfection cost him a chance to be absolutely perfect Friday night.

Making only his fifth start of the season, the 30-year-old right-hander threw 79 pitches to the plate against the Oakland A's and 60 of them were either strikes—he fanned four—or resulted in outs.

Bosman also threw twice to first base and one of them was high, glancing off the glove of Tom McCraw for a two-base error.

The miscue cost Bosman a perfect game and he had to settle for a no-hitter as the Indians snapped a six-game slide and Oakland's six-game winning streak by defeating the world champion A's 4-0.

Bosman wasn't discouraged with his narrow miss at what would have been the 11th perfect game in major league history.

"This has got to be the biggest thrill of my life."

Red Sox 3, Rangers 1
Luis Tiant scattered eight hits and Boston took advantage of four Texas errors. Tiant set down the first 12 Rangers until Mike Hargrove doubled to lead off the fifth inning and scored on Jim Spencer's single.

Orioles 5, Angels 4
Don Baylor's home run in the 10th inning enabled Baltimore to end a four-game losing streak after the Orioles had wasted a 4-1 lead. A sacrifice fly by Tommy Davis and a single by Baylor in the first inning accounted for two runs and California starter Dick Lange was chased in the third when run-scoring singles by Brooks Robinson and Earl Williams put the Orioles ahead 4-1.

Denny Doyle homered for the Angels.

Royals 5, Yankees 4
Amos Otis slammed a three-run homer off Sam McDowell with two out in the fifth inning and John Mayberry followed with a solo shot, powering Kansas City to a 4-1 lead. The Royals picked up what proved to be the winning run in the ninth on Fran Healy's single, Fred Patek's double and Jim Wohlford's infield hit.

White Sox 7, Brewers 3
Ken Henderson drove in three runs with a two-run homer and a double as Chicago rolled to its fifth straight victory. Bart Johnson picked up his third triumph in as many decisions since his recent recall from the minors but needed help from Terry Forster in the seventh.

George Scott and Darrell Porter homered for the Brewers.

Twins 7, Tigers 5
Rod Carew singled home one run and had three hits and Larry Hise doubled home two runs, propelling Minnesota over the slumping Tigers. Dave Goltz, who was greeted by Bill Freehan's three-run homer when he relieved Vic Albury in the first inning, hurled 7 1-3 strong innings to earn the victory.

Albers Named General Manager

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — "I hope I can justify their confidence in me," John "Bucky" Albers, a veteran Dayton sports writer, said Friday after he was named general manager of the Dayton Gems of the International Hockey League.

"I know I'll miss the newspaper, but I'm anxious to tackle this new assignment," said the 35-year-old Albers, who has been with the Dayton Journal-Herald since 1962, covering the Gems for eight years and the Cincinnati Reds baseball team for six years.

Free Agents Are Sought By Browns

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Browns are looking for as many free agents as they can find just in case the National Football League Players' strike is not over by the club's opening preseason game Aug. 2.

"We'll bring anybody to camp that we think is a fair athlete," Browns Coach Nick Skorich said. "There are a few positions that we have to fill. However, we're not going to pick them up off the street."

Skorich said that he hasn't adopted the attitude that the veterans will still be on strike when the preseason begins.

"I'm still hopeful that it will be settled in time for the first game," Skorich said. "But we're preparing to play the preseason games and the regular season with or without the veterans."

The Browns veterans began picketing camp when it opened last Sunday, and all but two have not reported, supporting the strike. The players' association is trying to get more freedom in their dealings with the owners.

There are 39 players in camp. The two Browns veterans are wide receiver Gloster Richardson and guard Bubba Pena. Skorich said it is getting harder to find free agents, "because all the other teams have already got them in their camps."

The Browns opening game against the Los Angeles Rams is only two weeks away and according to Skorich's reasoning even if the strike ended soon, most of the veterans would not be in good enough shape to play.

Curt Sifford Leads B.C. Open Golf

ENDICOTT, N.Y. (AP) — "Leading is nothing new to me," Curtis Sifford said. "I just haven't won."

"But I'm going to win this one."

Sifford, a 32-year-old nephew of old pro Charley Sifford, offered the observation after his four-under-par 67 had broken a massive logjam of players and staked him to a one-stroke lead Friday in the second round of the $150,000 B.C. Open Golf Tournament.

Sifford was one of the last players to finish on the windswept, 6,804-yard En Joie Golf Club course and he was tied with four others until he chipped to four feet and made the short birdie putt on his 17th hole.

That got him in with a two-round total of 135, seven under par, and dropped Don Iverson, Bruce Fleisher, rookie Mark Hayes and Tim Collins back into second at 136.

Iverson, Fleisher and Hayes all shared the 18-hole lead and all had 70s in the gusty winds. Collins, who has made the cut only twice before this year, birdied his last two holes for a 67.

None of the five leaders has ever won a regular tour title. All face the problems of the Monday morning qualifying rounds.

Australian veteran Bruce Crampton had the day's best round, a 66 that included a bogey on the final hole, and was tied with four others at 137, just two shots back in the chase for a $30,000 first prize.

He was tied with Lee Elder, Forrest Fezler, Mike Wynn and Richie Karl, an assistant pro at the host club.

Hubert Green, the defending titleholder and a three-time winner this season, was one of the few top stars to play in this event that immediately follows the prestige-laden British Open. He failed to qualify for the last two rounds, shooting a 151 total.

Harris Leads Championships

CHARDON, Ohio (AP)—Arthur Harris carried a slim lead into the second day of shooting today in the skeet phase of the U.S. Shotgun Championships here, but it took a perfect score to do it.

Harris, of Floral City, Fla., scored 100 in Friday's opening round for a one-target lead over Bill Slahuka, an Army shooter from Columbus, Ga.

Your Horoscope Television Schedule

The Circleville Herald, Saturday July 20, 1974

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SUNDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): The Aries' innate good judgment should help you to find satisfactory solutions to possible problems. Benefits indicated as a result of past good efforts.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Stellar influences now stimulate your personality and your talents, but you must USE them. A day for logical thinking and acting.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Less than your finest will not be acceptable now. Others know what you CAN produce, and will expect it.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): A self-possessed, unruffled manner, coupled with a sound investment of time and energies, are this day's requirements. Heed!

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): If you do not understand a situation, seek counsel from more experienced heads. Do not rely on guesswork. It could only lead to confusion.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Your planetary influences will be highly stimulating on Sunday, but be careful not to overtax yourself. Skilled action, evenly paced, should bring progress in keeping with high hopes.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Keen perception needed. Don't risk assets on the basis of "information" backed by nothing substantial.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Don't let yourself be influenced by first thoughts, first impressions. You could be mistaken about motivations, indications, your own ideas. Give all the benefit of the doubt.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): You may run into snags or obstacles, but you can handle them. Think over similar experiences of the past — and profit by them.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Stellar influences favor marital happiness, business partnerships, dealings with the opposite sex generally. Should be an all-round pleasant day.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Some recent puzzling situations and trends begin to clarify, so it will be easier for you to plan ahead along lines which are not only pleasing, but beneficial.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Much competition indicated. Don't think too long before taking due action but neither forge ahead impulsively.

YOU BORN TODAY are extremely versatile — especially along artistic lines. Unlike most Cancerians, you are not especially studious but you gain a great deal of knowledge through reading, traveling — and observation. When you ARE interested in a subject, however, you will engage in intensive research and learn all there is to know about it. You could succeed in either the business world (especially as banker or investment counselor) or in a profession, depending upon your inclinations, but you would probably be happiest in writing, music or acting. The mystic has a strong fascination for you and it may evidence itself in either religion or an extraordinary interest in the occult. Birthdate of: Ernest Hemingway, Amer. author; St. Philip Neri, founder of the Oratorians.

Flushed By Success

HULL, England (AP) — Dennis Bateson, 23, who formerly flushed 2,000 toilets a day as tester at a bathroom equipment factory here, has been promoted to the position of junior foreman.

Bateson was known as Britain's top chain puller and had held his previous post for two years. Now the company reports having trouble finding a new man for the flushing job.

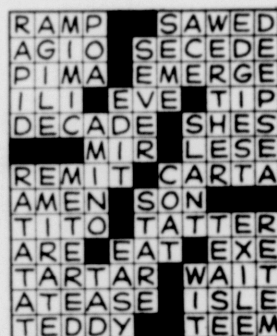

Hawaii's volcanoes have disgorged an average of 300,000 cubic yards of lava daily since 1969.

Volcano eruptions have created 210 acres of new land in Hawaii since 1969.

Actor Joe Flynn Found Dead; Captain On 'McHale's Navy'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Joe Flynn, 49, born in Youngstown, Ohio, and best known as gruff bumbling Capt. Wallace Binghamton on the television show "McHale's Navy," was found dead Friday in his Bel Air Swimming pool.

A team of police officers began an investigation of his death.

Flynn's wife, Shirley, told authorities he went swimming late Friday night. His 16-year-old son, Tony, discovered the body at 5:50 a.m.

Attempts by ambulance attendants to revive him were unsuccessful.

Flynn was widely known for his roles as a fussy, fuming stuffed-shirt in nine Walt Disney movies, numerous other films and on television.

He recently completed "The Strongest Man in the World" for Disney and was doing the voice of the villainous Mr. Snoops for a new car-

Ford Won't Jump Into Impeachment

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford said he won't engage in any "arm-twisting lobbying" to ward off President Nixon's possible impeachment by the House.

"I think that's an insult to most members of the House," Ford said.

At the same time, the vice president, who maintains evidence does not exist to prove Nixon has committed any impeachable offense, said he will campaign for Republicans in this fall's elections on a "highly selective" but still unspecified basis.

Ford himself appeared slightly confused as to what that basis is. He told a news conference Friday afternoon in Roanoke, Va., that he might well campaign for and support Democratic candidate who had shown support for Nixon administration policies.

En route by plane to Hot Springs he modified that stand and repeated earlier statements that there may be some Democratic candidates whose districts he will not enter in support of their Republican opponents. "I have no plans to campaign in person for any Democrats," Ford said through a press spokesman.

Ford did campaign for Rep. Caldwell Butler, R-Va., a member of the House Judiciary Committee which soon must vote whether or not to issue a bill of impeachment against Nixon. Ford told reporters he would campaign for Butler again, no matter how Butler votes on impeachment.

And he said that holds true for any Republican House member.

Referring to critical comments by White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, Ford said: "I certainly would not call the manner in which (the House Judiciary Committee) has operated a kangaroo court. I think they've worked very hard to do a responsible job."

Ford is to spend the weekend playing golf at a resort hotel in Hot Springs. He will address the Virginia Bar Association tonight.

Bear Buried In Cemetery

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A bear which was secretly interred in Union Cemetery two years ago will be officially reburied Thursday.

Symmes Township Trustees Rod Williams and Ken Harrison spent several weeks investigating a rumor that a bear had been surreptitiously laid to rest in the cemetery two years ago.

Williams said the bear was the pet of Eloise Burchold, a former resident of the Loveland area and a circus trainer.

The aged grizzly suffered from arthritis and had to be killed. It was buried by cemetery attendants.

Williams said the bear will be exhumed and moved to a "suitable site, but we'll do it with reverence. We don't want anyone to think we have anything against bears."

toon feature, "The Rescuers."

"McHale's Navy" was on ABC for four seasons starting in 1962 and starred Ernest Borgnine. Tim Conway made his debut on the show, and Flynn later starred with him on CBS' "The Tim Conway Show."

He is best remembered as a comedian, but he began as a serious actor.

"When I first started out in 1954," Flynn recalled recently, "nobody considered me a comedian. I was struggling actor. All my early roles in such films as 'The Big Chase,' 'Desperate Hours,' 'The Ten Commandments' and 'The Seven Little Foys' were serious characterizations."

His first comic role came in the 1961 film "The Last Time I Saw Archie."

Flynn was born Nov. 8, 1924, the son of a Youngstown dentist. He got his first taste of acting at the age of 6, when he was called in as a replacement for Olsen and Johnson's "Hellzapoppin'."

He toured with the show one summer, until his father called him back to continue his education.

He attended Notre Dame University, then served in the Special Services division as an entertainer in World War II. After the war he earned a degree in speech at the University of Southern California and taught speech.

He later traveled with touring stock companies, appearing in nearly 50 productions. He made his movie debut in "The Babe Ruth Story" in 1948, then quit the business in 1950 to run for the Ohio Legislature as a Republican. He won in the primary but lost in the general election.

Surviving are his widow, the former Shirley Haskin; and two sons, Tony and K.C.

Four Stolen Autos Found By Deputies

Four stolen vehicles were recovered by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies.

Thanks to a tip by Jay Curry, 130 W. Ohio St., Deputy Lawrence Holt recovered the 1964 Dodge van owned by Gene Lindsey, 554 Green Acre Ct., Friday at 5:25 p.m.

The vehicle was found on a railroad access road one mile south of the Circleville-Tarleton Rd. along Scippo Creek.

Deputy Holt also recovered two cars apparently taken from the Columbus area.

He recovered a 1967 Chevrolet at Lane Rd. that had been stolen from Columbus Thursday. It was found by Joe Ehman, Route 2, Orient.

The other vehicle found was a 1973 Ford Fairlane in the Clark's Lakes subdivision. It was reported stolen last Saturday.

Deputy Earl Kuhn found Paul Wise's 1972 Buick in South Bloomfield 4:26 p.m. Friday. Wise, from Gallipolis, reported the car stolen in Columbus early Friday.

Lawyer Seeks U.S. Evidence On Kent State

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— An attorney for four former Ohio National guardsmen indicted in the 1970 Kent State University shootings says the government confiscated some important records on the case while he was studying them at the National Archives in Washington.

In a motion filed in U.S. District Court Friday, attorney Daniel M. Roth said the records in question were part of the Scranton Commission's report on the shootings.

His complaint came as the government, under court order, turned over to defense attorneys copies of some evidence that will be presented at their trial.

Roth said he and two associates were reviewing the public portions of the report June 27 when they came across a filed marked "confidential."

He said the file included memos from Jerris Leonard, former head of the Justice Department's civil rights division, to former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, to former presidential aide John D. Ehrlichman, to former FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and to other Justice Department officials.

Roth said the material had been misfiled in the public portion of the report for 3½ years.

He said the memos detailed status of the investigation being conducted by the FBI and Portage county officials and requests for additional investigations.

Roth said when he asked for copies of the 80-page file, Archives officials at first agreed but 30 minutes later told him the documents were being seized and that he could not get copies or mark the file for later identification.

He said he was told the file was part of the restricted documents of the Scranton Commission.

His motion asks for access to the entire Scranton report.

Judge Frank J. Battisti is to rule on the motion.

Convict Man In Slaying

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — A Marine private from Savannah, Ga., has been convicted in a military court on eight charges stemming from the killing of another Marine, U.S. Navy authorities said today.

They said Pfc. Clayton A. Fountain, 18, was convicted Friday and sentenced to confinement at hard labor for life in the killing of S.Sgt. Douglas J. Wren, 25, of Nevada, Ohio.

Fountain was convicted of premeditated murder, kidnapping, assault with a dangerous weapon, unlawful detention, larceny, robbery, possession of a dangerous weapon and assault upon a commissioned officer, a Navy spokesman said.

The trial was held at the U.S. Navy base at Subic Bay, 50 miles northwest of Manila, where the shooting incident involving Fountain occurred March 6, 1974.

Navy authorities said Fountain shot and killed Wren with a shotgun he grabbed from a civilian guard on a two-mile recreation island across from the base, and also held six other men hostage for nearly five hours.

State Retirees Rap Pay Boost Size

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Spokesmen for retired public employees and state universities complained Friday that the $124 million supplemental appropriations bill is inequitable and discriminatory.

And a state legislator vowed an "all-out fight" to defeat the measure when it comes before the Ohio General Assembly next week.

The bill would provide $22 million for pay raises for state workers and $45 million in additional state aid for schools.

But Earl Ross, president of the Public Employee Retirees, Inc., said the measure provides only $5 million for pension increases.

He called that "an insult to the 100,000 Ohio retirees whose life work has been in public employment," and said it was a "complete reversal" of commitments made to retired groups during House committee hearings last spring.

"Our organization feels there must be a commitment by the administration and the General Assembly that the state will face up to its obligation to these former public servants both now and in the future," Ross said.

Hollis A. Moore, president of Bowling Green State University, said the measure appropriates pay increases for only 9,400 of the 16,000 civil service workers employed by state universities.

He said that is unfair because it requires the universities to raise funds for the other mandated increases by raising user fees for dormitories, dining facilities, bookstores, health services, clinics and hospitals.

Moore said universities will be required to provide an estimated $4 million to $5 million for the increases.

He said the legislative committee also failed to provide for some 45,000 persons employed by the universities in unclassified positions.

"It is grossly discriminatory and inequitable for these employees to receive no cost-of-living adjustment, when they obviously are equally hit by spiraling costs," Moore said.

Moore, chairman of the Inter-University Council, noted the council had called on the legislature to provide pay adjustments for all employees whose annual salary is below $15,000.

Rep. Norman A. Murdock, R-21 Cincinnati, said he will seek defeat of the bill because the legislative committee rejected an amendment to save $700,000 the Cincinnati School District stands to lose.

Murdock said declining enrollment will cause the school district to lose $10 per student in state aid. "That's a lot of money and I don't intend to stand still about it," he declared.

Murdock claimed that the committee would not have had to add "one additional cent" to the appropriations bill because funds were appropriated last year.
